Anger as thief steals charity cash from pub

ADAM LUKE

A YOUNG fundraiser has branded a thief who stole money she was collecting for a children's cancer charity "pathetic".

Natalie Haylock was working as a chef in The Cock Inn, Little Thurlow, last month where the £380 she had received from friends and family ahead of a sponsored skydive was stored behind the bar.

When the 20-year-old returned to the hiding place, £220 of the money meant for the Lennox Children's Cancer Fund was missing.

Natalie, of Allington Cottages, Horseheath, said: "I am raising money for a skydive in Peterborough on May 31 and my fundraising tin was full of money."

"Two days later most of the money was gone. I just think that anyone who would steal from such an incredible cause is absolutely pathetic. It makes me sick."

The theft was reported to the police but enquiries have so far been unsuccessful.

The former Linton Village College pupil, who now works at The Cosy Cockerel in Castle Camps, said: "The charity helps little kids with cancer by giving families treats and support which otherwise they wouldn't get, and they operate across the Cambridge area."

"I have raised funds for them in the past and when I heard about the skydive I thought it would be another chance to raise funds. I'm hoping to slowly recover my total in the coming days."

"The children this charity supports deserve all the help they can get."

Meanwhile, Suffolk Police this week appealed for witnesses after another charity box – this time containing £100 – was stolen from Creation Hair Studio in Gloucester Road, Haverhill.

FUNDRAISING: Natalie Haylock

The incident happened at 9.45am on Tuesday, May 13.

A police spokesman said: "A man had been seen loitering outside the premises for a short while, when he then came in and asked for a glass of water which a staff member went out the back to get for him."

"It is believed that at this point he stole a purple 'Save Babies UK' charity tin, which is estimated to have contained £100 in cash."

The man was white, about 6ft tall, with dark hair in outgrown crew cut style and aged in his 30s. He was wearing cream trousers and a camel-coloured coat.

Anyone with information should contact PC Cobi Moss at the Investigations Management Unit on 101, quoting HH/14/932, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

DID you see this cute little puppet winning over the attentions of Ant and Dec and the Britain's Got Talent judges on the Saturday night TV show?

She may have spoken with a clipped New York accent, but in fact hails from, you guessed it... Haverhill.

Teen maths whizzes strive for top grades

TALENTED teenage mathematicians from a Haverhill school boosted their exam prospects at two revision days.

The year 11 pupils from Samuel Ward Academy, along with peers from Newmarket College, took part in carousel workshops in the mornings and then team quizzes in the afternoons at the Chalkstone Way site - aimed at helping them to A and A* grades in their upcoming GCSEs.

The event was sponsored by Haverhill Research Park and was part of a programme across the Samuel Ward Multi Academy Trust to support and challenge able mathematicians.

Chris Dale, vice-principal at Samuel Ward, said: "It was fantastic to see over 80 pupils from both schools working incredibly hard over the two days, and really appreciating how important a high GCSE grade in mathematics is and the doors that this can open."

At the end of the sessions, students Rhiyana Thompson from Newmarket College and Josh Matthewson and Jaimy-Lee Gray from Samuel Ward were presented with awards for their achievements over the two days, as well as their progress in the subject since Christmas.

WINNERS: Rhiyana Thompson, Josh Matthewson and Jaimy-Lee Gray

Haverhill races to return over two days

NEXT year's HaverHalf and Haver10 runs are set to be held across two days and with revised routes in 2015, after its organiser analysed feedback from this year's inaugural event.

In a survey of the 350-plus runners who took part on May 11 in aid of St Nicholas Hospice Care, 99 per cent said they would enter again, 84 per cent said they would consider entering both the HaverHalf and Haver10 if they were held on separate days, 90 per cent found the course fun, 81 per cent found it challenging, and 84 per cent found it easy to navigate.

Meanwhile, 79 per cent of the 180 runners who returned the questionnaire said it was cheap to enter, 73 per cent felt safe on the course, and 77 per cent felt they were able to set a good time.

editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

However, areas for improvement included ease of registration, marshal numbers and signposting.

Organiser Jack Tappin said he welcomed the responses and was already making plans to remedy problems by introducing chip timing, early registration, a chief marshal and a course director for 2015.

He said: "The survey has been very useful, and just as I was surprised by the number of runners we got at the event so too have I been pleasantly surprised by the number of people offering their feedback with this survey."

He added: "I plan to have an easier to navigate course for next year, but most promising was that so many people are prepared to enter in the future."

"I hope to split the events into two days of racing, and with better selection of dates to avoid clashing with other local athletics events I think we can aim to attract close to 400 runners per race. Hopefully that will come true in 2015."

Meanwhile, anyone interested in volunteering in support of future HaverHalf and Haver10 events should email haverhalf@gmail.com or Tweet @haverhalf.

Walks, talks and stories at the library

A STRING of events are planned for Haverhill Library.

The Camps Road venue is running a two-hour tablet and eReader course on Wednesday, June 4, and on June 11 from 2pm to 4pm. The course is £10.

On June 8, a historical walk and talk through Haverhill, from 2pm to 3.30pm, will start and finish at the library at £5 per person, including refreshments. It will be led by Tony Turner and Dr Patrick Crouch from the Haverhill History Society.

Then the free Travelling Treasury storytelling event, suitable for all ages and coinciding with the Haverhill Street Festival, takes place on Saturday, June 14, from 11am to 3pm.

Also on June 14 is a Family History Talk about River Thames Waterman and Lightermen with Brian Cornell, starting at 11am, in the Burton Centre community hall.

Contact the library on (01440) 702638 for details.

Meet Patsy May... the little puppet with a big talent

ADAM LUKE

A MYSTERY puppeteer who made headlines earlier this month when her act flirted her way through a Britain's Got Talent audition has appealed to her home town for support.

Larger-than-life Patsy May won a multitude of fans when she took to the stage on Saturday, May 3, and charmed hosts Ant and Dec with a cheeky rendition of Dream a Little Dream of Me – earning a kiss and cuddle from the Geordie duo.

Viewers will find out on Sunday if it earned her a spot in one of next week's five live semi-finals.

Since her crowd-pleasing performance and subsequent appearances on This Morning with Phillip Schofield and in other media, speculation as to who is behind Patsy has erupted.

But now the Weekly News can reveal the anonymous artist who brings to life the blue puppet, who tells audiences she was born in England but now lives in Upstate New York and is a singer and actress, actually hails from Haverhill.

The former Chalkstone Middle School and Samuel Ward pupil lives in London but regularly returns back home to visit family and friends in the town.

The anonymous artist said: "My passion for puppeteering came from summer camps in Upstate New York I worked at when I was younger, as I did improv and puppet making with kids, as well as with amateur dramatics companies in Haverhill."

"Even at school I remember being asked to be a gargoyle but I didn't want to so I came up with a puppet instead.

"I have always loved the idea of being hidden and being believable as something else."

During her audition, Patsy also flirted with Simon Cowell, leading the media mogul to quip, "I kind of see you in Amanda's chair next year" – referring to fellow judge Amanda Holden.

The puppeteer added: "It is really difficult to do as you have to multi-task – you have to sing and lip synch, put emotion into your wrists as you move, and think on your feet because you need to react quickly to what goes on around you."

"The audition was a terrifying experience. Patsy is a confident character but I was really nervous and it helped being hidden. I hadn't rehearsed anything with Ant and Dec so it was all off the cuff."

"Patsy was created in 2010 but has developed into different forms along the way, depending on materials available – she has definitely got more classy in recent times."

So why is she staying anonymous?

The artist explained: "The plan was to make Patsy a real person – she is the contestant, not me. I am enjoying being anonymous. I feel a bit like Peter Parker or Bruce Wayne."

"I have heard that I am a man, or a blonde woman or even a child. Nobody seems to realise I am an ordinary brunette from Haverhill but I am proud to be."

"I have big plans for the semi-finals if I make it and it would be fantastic to get the support of my home town."

Crash on A143 traps casualties in vehicles

THREE people were taken to hospital following a multiple car crash near Stradishall.

Emergency services were called to the A143 near the junction with Wickham Street just after 3pm on Monday where a car, van and lorry had collided.

Fire crews released two trapped casualties.

An East of England Ambulance Service spokesman added: "In total, three casualties were treated – two females with abdominal injuries and a male with injuries to his hand and knee. All were taken to West Suffolk Hospital with injuries not thought to be serious."

Meanwhile, at 4.35pm on Tuesday, the East Anglian Air Ambulance was called to Sturmer Road in Haverhill after a lorry cab fell onto a man who had been repairing it, trapping him.

He was released by the fire service by 5.25pm and airlifted to Addenbrooke's in a serious but stable condition.

Garages: Relief for residents as plans dropped

HAVERHILL residents who fought plans to demolish their garages to make way for housing have spoken of their cautious optimism that the plans have been dropped.

Complaints from residents led to three affordable housing plans being withdrawn, as reported last week.

Proposals were entered by Havebury Housing Partnership to demolish garage blocks on Norton Road, Orford Road and Ladygate, on the Clements Estate, to make way for 17 new homes.

But due to more than 80 objections from councillors and neighbours, who opposed the loss of garage and car parking spaces, the plans have been withdrawn – Ladygate indefinitely, and Orford Road and Norton Road for revisions to be made which will take at least six months.

At a public consultation on May 7, residents expressed their concerns to representatives of the housing charity.

Lynn Jones, who lives in Parkside, said: "I am absolutely elated so far. It's not totally over, but we have certainly gone a long way towards winning the war."

Mark and Nicola Turley, also of Parkside, said: "It's good news for those of us in Parkside – but I think it's just a breather. If Havebury comes back it will be nice to see some sort of garages left here for the people who need them."

Meanwhile, Havebury is going ahead with plans to build two maisonettes and two houses at another garage site in Nayland Road on the Clements Estate, and four houses and two flats in Cambridge Way.

Paul Edwards, director of resources at Havebury, and colleagues presented revised plans for the two sites to Haverhill town councillors on Tuesday. He explained that there was more provision of parking spaces in the proposals, and proximity of homes to each other was the same as in the existing estate.

Mr Edwards said: "Havebury has listened very carefully to make sure we provide as much parking for existing residents as we can and that we meet the need for affordable homes."

Cllr Maureen Byrne, who represents Haverhill South, said: "I am extremely pleased that Havebury has reconsidered what they intended to do, especially in relation to Parkside."

"What I could not accept was the aim of building homes on every little bit of land they could find."

A public consultation into the Nayland Road and Cambridge Way plans is at the Leiston Community Centre today between 4.30pm and 7.15pm. View the plans at stedmundsbury.gov.uk.

Young people learn market trade

STREET artists, dancers and a teddy bear hunt made for a memorable youth market on Saturday.

Young Haverhill traders were invited to try out their business ventures with a free pitch – while families enjoyed shopping and entertainment.

Participants in a teddy bear hunt around the market took home their own mini bear, while Angie the Hula Hoopa wowed the crowd with her tricks, artistic teens tried their hand on a graffiti wall, and samba dancers entertained passers-by.

Stalls manned by the 16 to 24-year-olds ranged from homemade cushions to herbs and spices, scarves and Vietnamese pulled pork takeaways.

The youth market was part of the Love Your Local Market initiative, which is taking place across the country.

Earlier this year, Sharon Fairweather was appointed market development officer for West Suffolk in an effort to turn the retail sector around in the region.

DEBRA FOX

She said: "The event went really well and attracted a good crowd, with everyone seeming to enjoy themselves."

"The young stallholders were very professional and they made the most of the opportunity to serve customers and manage their money."

"The stalls worked very well alongside the usual market stalls and the extra entertainment we put on for the occasion."

Becky Baldwin, a teacher at Castle Manor Academy in Haverhill, said: "Our students were confident serving customers and were keen to get involved in the graffiti wall and samba dancing."

"I'd like to thank students and teaching staff for their positive contribution to Haverhill's first youth market – we will certainly be taking part next year."

A farmers' market took place last month, and a motor show is planned for July, to coincide with the annual transport rally.

LITTLE CHEFS: Some of the pupils who took part in Jamie Oliver's cookery lesson.

Young chefs dish up a treat... with Jamie's help

PUPILS at two Haverhill schools cooked up a storm on Friday – alongside Jamie Oliver.

Year 4 and 5 Place Farm Primary Academy students, Castle Manor Academy year 8s and town mayor Roger André took part in the nationwide

Food Revolution Day live lesson. Participants watched a demonstration led by the celebrity chef, before creating their own 'rainbow wraps'.

David Cianciola, who led the event at Place Farm, said: "It is always great to see the children taking an interest in cookery. They enjoy the opportunity to create interesting and healthy dishes and were keen to try the outcome."

The project also set a new Guinness World Record for most participants in a cookery lesson.

£200K: what would you spend it on?

DEBRA FOX

INITIAL ideas on how to spend £200,000 on a Haverhill housing estate have been suggested by residents.

New play equipment for children living in the south of the town, and transforming the "look and feel" of the Leiston Centre were just two of the suggestions made at a meeting between local people and Community Action Suffolk.

The session, which was held at the Leiston Centre on May 14, invited residents living in Haverhill South to submit their views on how a potential £200,000 should be spent across the area.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, deputy mayor, who represents Haverhill South, said: "I think this is tremendous, and I am really looking forward to the residents deciding what they want for themselves."

"This is about real people power – it's not someone who doesn't live in the town coming in and telling people what they should have. This is good community spirit."

Cllr Byrne has suggested that having goalposts and basketball nets on a piece of

PEOPLE POWER:
Cllr Maureen Byrne

land would be beneficial for the young people, and that a music project, to run at the Leiston Centre, could be popular.

The money, which will benefit those living on the town's Clements Estate, is in the form of a grant from the People's Health Trust. Only two other areas in Suffolk – Gainsborough in Ipswich, and Kirkley in Lowestoft – have been chosen to benefit from such a grant.

One intention of the meeting was to take the first steps in forming a People's Forum, who will become the decision makers on how to spend the grant.

This group, which will consist of between nine and 12 residents, will also help in forming an action plan, which will be submitted to the People's Health Trust to release the money.

Jon Eaton, community field officer with Community Action Suffolk, said: "We are pleased with the initial interest and would like to offer this great opportunity to various age groups from across Haverhill South to be part of the People's Forum."

Cllr Byrne added: "It is important that we get the schools involved in this as well as businesses, pubs and REACH, which has its offices on the Clements Estate."

"I will be inviting young people to come and talk to us and hopefully come along to a meeting and get involved."

The next meeting is being held on May 28, at the Leiston Centre, from 7pm.

Three cheers!

THREE cheers for the scrapping of the experimental traffic order. I am a resident of Helions Park Avenue and am delighted, along with my neighbours that this ridiculous scheme has been scrapped.

I also work in the High Street and can see that people want to park there.

Why can't the kerbs be reinstated and parking bays be opened up, so that people know which is the road and which is the path?

That is especially important when you are trying to teach children that they must stop at the kerb before crossing the road.

Perhaps put parking meters in which would bring some revenue into the High Street, along with making some free or cheaper parking in the bigger car parks.

Lunch and some maypole dancing

CHILDREN at a Haverhill primary school gathered yesterday for a May picnic and some traditional country dancing.

Youngsters at Coupsals Primary School, in Chalkstone Way, marked the last week before their half term holidays by inviting their families to lunch.

It was followed by dance routines performed on the school field, surrounding the iconic maypole.

David Maguire, acting headteacher, said: "It is a longstanding tradition at the school. All year groups – 205 pupils in total – had been rehearsing either their country dances or maypole dances for a couple of weeks and they loved performing."

"It is one of the highlights of their school year and it was great to see so many mums, dads, aunts and uncles and other family members coming to watch."

£10million. Horry sub-contracted a scaffolding company from Newmarket to use free standing structures to avoid rust staining his special stone, which was used as a facing over a brick shell.

A special lime mortar was designed for the Suffolk Cream brickwork which was constructed with great precision and without any metal framework to ensure the building a 1,000 year lifetime.

Taking a great interest in architectural design, past and contemporary, Prince Charles, patron of the project, visited to view work in progress three times and on one brick-laying photo-shoot occasion scheduled to last just three minutes, stayed chatting with craftsmen for over 50 minutes, unfortunately getting his suit well splattered with mortar.

The 500-year anniversary of the building of the very fine nave of the original St James church by master mason John Wastell was celebrated in August 2003 – a poignant link with the dedicated craftsmen of the 16th Century whose commissions included King's College Cambridge and the bell tower of Canterbury Cathedral.

Horry's authoritative account of the enormously complicated project, including anecdotal amusing incidents, provided us all with a very enjoyable morning

U3A's next talk, on 27th May, will be given by Youdon Lhamo entitled Tibet through Personal Experience.

More help needed at 'rewarding' service

A VOLUNTARY group which helps Haverhill residents overcome problems is looking for new members.

Haverhill Citizen's Advice Bureau (CAB), part of the independent charity West Suffolk CAB, is running a campaign to recruit more volunteers to act as advisers at the centre in Haverhill House, Lower Downs Slade.

Alice Balchin, a volunteer adviser at the service for the past two years, said: "It can be a challenging role, but an extremely rewarding one, and we always have support from a supervisor who has more experience in advice and helps us to spot issues surrounding a problem."

"I feel like I'm learning something new every day – it is so interesting. I also enjoy my second volunteering role in campaign work."

"We advise people on benefits, debt, employment, housing, relationships, and a variety of other problems. Every day is different. The gratitude we get from clients when we have helped sort out a problem that has been worrying them to death is quite touching."

Call Haverhill CAB on (01440) 704012.

Could you volunteer to be a community ambassador?

RESIDENTS who volunteer to keep Haverhill clean are appealing for others to join them.

A group of Community Ambassadors have started work across town, following the launch of a project by ONE Haverhill earlier this year.

The volunteers each take responsibility for a certain area of Haverhill. They work to report broken street lights, potholes and other problems. Ambassadors can also carry out minor repairs if they are able. Equipment is provided by Suffolk County Council.

Elaine Hewes, volunteer field officer at Community Action Suffolk, said: "It's about supporting and empowering the local community in areas where they want to help."

"Our volunteers want to help fix minor problems and issues but felt they were treading on the toes of the local authorities."

"Now, with me as a link, we hope to build up the scheme to enable people in Haverhill to help where they want to."

During ONE Haverhill's community budget consultation last year, members of the public voiced their concerns about maintaining the local community – and said they wanted to do their bit to help.

It was then revealed that part of the budget would go towards a scheme appointing people to become the eyes and ears of the streets.

Clive White, of Chestnut Close, signed up to the project with his wife Tracey.

He said: "It's everyone's responsibility to pitch in and help. It's your community."

The volunteers have organised a community litter pick, taking place in areas off School Lane. This will take place on June 7, from 10am until 12pm.

If you would like to join in, meet the team at Haverhill Rugby Club and bring warm and waterproof clothes.

If you're interested in becoming a community ambassador, email elaine.hewes@communityactionsuffolk.org.uk.

PRODUCING THE GOODS: Centre Stage's cast rehearse ahead of the show.

Cast aim to produce a showstopper

COMEDY capers and big show tunes are set to entertain Haverhill audiences when a theatre group brings The Producers to town in June.

Centre Stage will bring Mel Brooks' award-winning farce
— now one of Broadway's most successful musicals — to life at the Haverhill Arts

Centre from Tuesday, June 3, to Saturday, June 7.

The show's hero Max
Bialystock, a once successful
Broadway producer, has seen his latest show 'Funny Boy!'
flop on its opening night, leaving him facing bankruptcy.

But his fortunes change

when he meets downtrodden accountant, Leo Bloom, who explains, there is money to be made out of theatrical failure — and they go about creating the world's worst musical.

Slimmers' clothes donated to charity

SLIMMERS have joined forces to spring-clean their wardrobes and donate their clothes to Cancer Research UK.

In support of 'The Big Slimming World Clothes Throw', members of the Haverhill group have collected all their unwanted clothes, shoes and accessories over the past two weeks and handed them over to the charity's local shop.

Each bag collected is expected to raise £25 for the charity, with profits going to support work to help beat cancer sooner.

Tania Watson, who runs the weight-loss group which meets every Wednesday at The Newcroft in Chalkstone Way, said members jumped at the chance to recycle the clothes they've slimmed out of and help raise money.

She said: "My members have

ADAM LUKE

all really embraced this fabulous fundraising campaign and have been more than happy to donate their 'big' clothes as they know that they're never going to need them again.

"Between them, members of the group have lost an amazing amount of weight since January this year and now they're looking and feeling fantastic. I'm very proud.

"One in three of us are affected by cancer and being overweight increases the risk of developing the disease, so we're determined to do anything we can do to help fight cancer and help people lead healthier lives.

"I'm delighted my members are always so keen to pull together and support local good causes. Cancer touches so many people's lives so most people are keen to contribute."

Kirsty Bell is Cancer Research UK manager in the Cambridge and district area.

She said: "We welcome clothes and items of all shapes, sizes and styles and were absolutely thrilled to receive such a huge donation of clothing from the Haverhill Slimming World group.

"We're delighted they've chosen to use their slimming success to raise money for Cancer Research UK — it makes a real difference to our fundraising efforts and it's good to raise awareness that being overweight increases cancer risk too."

Knockout effort for West Suffolk Hospital

WEST Suffolk businesses and community groups still have time to sign up for a fun-packed fundraiser.

West Suffolk Hospital
Charity is giving supporters the chance to take part in the third annual 'It's a Bury Knockout', which takes place on Hardwick Heath on Sunday, July 13.

Teams of 10 to 12 will tackle a series of obstacles and games, while spectators can enjoy a host of other entertainment on the day, including fairground rides, climbing wall, simulator ride, and stalls and refreshments.

Dave Gooderham, hospital
fundraising manager, said:
"It's fantastic that we have received so much support from local businesses and organisations. Their generosity has gone a long way towards making this year's Knockout even bigger and better than ever."

Teams must raise a minimum £500 sponsorship, with a prize for the most. Email

NEWS IN BRIEF

Young carer numbers rise

ALMOST 1,500 children in Suffolk are providing unpaid care for someone close to them, the Census has shown.

A total of 1,497 children aged 15 or younger in the county care for a parent, sibling or family member.

The news comes as The Children's Society and the Carers' Trust launch a Young Carers in Schools programme, to provide staff with training to make sure young carers are supported.

The Children's Society Chief Executive Matthew Reed said: "An alarming amount of young carers in your area are having their lives turned upside down, juggling school work and looking after their loved ones."

The organisation said that exposing the issue "simply was not enough".

Don't forget to sign up early

WOMEN wishing to take part in Girls Night Out still have time to take advantage of a special offer.

The event, for St Nicholas Hospice Care, will only cost £10 until May 31. After, registration goes up to £15.

The walk takes place in Bury St Edmunds on September 13.

THE next Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT) meeting takes place on June 16.

Residents are being invited to the meeting at Haverhill Arts Centre from 7pm.

The public will vote for their new policing priorities for the upcoming quarter.

Votes can also be submitted online via haverhillvote.co.uk.

The meeting will also be streamed live via this website.

Hospice centre open next week

PATIENTS and their families will soon benefit from a range of hospice services in Haverhill.

The first ever outreach centre for St Nicholas Hospice Care opens in town next Saturday from 11am until 5pm.

While there will be no beds for inpatients, a range of therapies, activities and support systems will be on offer from the centre for those suffering from life-shortening illnesses.

It will be open Monday to Friday, from 9am until 5pm.

There will also be a cafe on site, open for all Haverhill residents to use.

If you're interested in volunteering, call the hospice's volunteer centre on 01284 766418.

Affordable homes for snooker club site

A FORMER snooker club is going to become the site for new houses and flats.

Haverhill Snooker and Bowl, on Chalkstone Way, closed in March last year. Now, it will be demolished after planning permission was granted to build seven houses and 14 flats on the site.

Twenty parking spaces will be provided for the 14 flats, each house will get two spaces and there will be four spaces for guests.

The application, approved last week, was made by Havebury Housing Partnership.

A planning officer's report said: "The proposed development will provide 21 houses, all of which will be affordable."

"The existing building on the site will be demolished and the site cleared. Both the provision of affordable housing and the removal of the utilitarian existing buildings weigh heavily in favour of the scheme."

There will be 13 two-bedroom flats, one one-bedroom flat, six three-bedroom houses and one four-bedroom house.

Scott Bailey, Head of Development at Havebury Housing Partnership, said: "We are really excited to be starting on site in Chalkstone Way on the site of the former snooker and bowling club."

"We anticipate demolition starting next week followed by the creation of 21 new affordable homes."

"Havebury will be able to provide a mix of one, two, three and four bedroom homes for people in St Edmundsbury in housing need."

tips for employers

Claire Sleep,
Employment
Solicitor at Ashton KCJ, offers some useful advice.

Today's employees have a wide range of rights to protect them against unlawful practices. This is especially the case in relation to family related rights, where employers need to consider employee's rights whilst on maternity, paternity and adoption leave, as well as requests for flexible working among other matters. Employers of all sizes should consider the following:

1. The right to request flexible working will extend to all employees and not just those with caring responsibilities from 30 June 2014. From this date, the process in relation to flexible working will become less prescriptive. Employers should ensure they have appropriate and up to date flexible working procedures in place.

2. It is important to bear in mind that the flexible working legislation does not create a right for an employee to work flexibly but does mean that all employees can make a request which should then be carefully considered by the employer.

3. Another important area for employers to consider are the issues involved when an employee takes either maternity, paternity or adoption leave. A number of matters should be discussed with an employee before they go on any period of leave, including how annual holiday (accrued both before going on leave and during) will be dealt with. In addition, it may be beneficial to keep in contact with the employee during the period of leave and keeping-in-touch (KIT) days may be applicable.

4. All employees have a statutory right to take a reasonable amount of unpaid time off work to deal with particular situations which affect their dependants. Whilst there is no requirement for employees to provide evidence for the need to take time off, it may be appropriate for an employer to request evidence, provided there are reasonable grounds to make such a request and that it cannot be viewed as discriminatory or cause detriment to an employee.

Please contact us for advice on any employment related issues.

Networkers give the thumbs up to new venue

MORE than 50 business owners gathered at a Haverhill pub restaurant for a monthly networking event last week.

The Flying Shuttle, in Three Counties Way, Haverhill Research Park, hosted thebestof Haverhill gathering, featuring a presentation by venue manager Shona Mulvaney.

Hired by Marston's PLC in February, Shona was specifically recruited to run The Flying Shuttle, following more than 15 years of experience in the pub and restaurant trade, having previously worked in London's Leicester Square and Stansted.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestof Haverhill, said: "We had a great event at The Flying Shuttle – it was very well attended and there was a real buzz in the room. It is a lovely facility for Haverhill and everyone was impressed at the high quality of the decor and fit out.

"Shona and her team made us very welcome and were excellent hosts. You wouldn't have known that they had only opened just over a week before.

"It is fantastic to see the Haverhill Research Park coming to life."

Councils searching for new apprentices

DEBRA FOX

TEN new apprenticeship roles are opening up across West Suffolk Councils.

St Edmundsbury Borough and Forest Heath District councils already have 10 apprentices in post and 18 of their current staff started their careers through apprenticeships.

Ian Gallin, chief executive at both authorities, started his working life as an apprentice after leaving school at 17 and joining Devon County Council. Alongside this, he studied business and finance.

He later studied economic development and planning, and was then offered a job at Bath City Council.

Mr Gallin said: "I have no idea what I would have done if I hadn't had the opportunity to become an apprentice – I certainly would not have had the kick start into my career I received.

"The valuable experience I had achieved as an apprentice gave me a significant advantage in gaining that job."

Millie Royal, who is currently an apprentice with HR department, has said "earning and learning" has been the biggest benefit of the project so far. Tom Peters, who works in finance, said apprenticeships provide "hands on experience" that is attractive to employers.

The scheme is also supported by Matthew Hancock, West Suffolk MP and Skills and Enterprise Minister.

He added: "We want it to be the new norm for young people to choose to either go to university or begin an apprenticeship.

"Apprenticeships increase business productivity and increase skills levels, so with a talent pool of over a million potential employees, it is the ideal time for companies and councils to take advantage of the opportunities for business growth provided by employing apprentices."

HE NOSE WHAT TO DO: Clyde with Diana. Inset, Diana with husband Cllr John Reynolds in 2009 and their sixth Guide Dog puppy, Darcy
Main pictures: Warren Gunn

Deafness can be horribly isolating – but not for Diana Reynolds, thanks to her helpful, faithful and potentially life-saving Hearing Dog, Clyde. Emma Higginbotham reports.

THERE'S a gleeful woofing as I ring the bell of Diana Reynolds' Bar Hill home. When the door opens, first to greet me is Clyde, a terribly handsome – and very waggy – Labrador cross flat-coated retriever, followed by the lady of the house herself.

But Clyde isn't just the family pet: Diana is severely deaf, and Clyde is her Hearing Dog. In fact he's just 'told' her that the doorbell has rung. "He's a wonderful boy, aren't you?" says Diana, stroking his glossy coat. "Oh, I just love him to bits."

A great-grandmother of three ("nearly four!"), Diana, who uses hearing aids and lip-reads, has had Clyde since January of last year. Fully-trained, the faithful pooch goes everywhere with her, and acts as her ears around the house.

"When he hears the doorbell, the alarm clock, the telephone or anything like that, he comes and nudges me," she explains. "I say 'What is it?', and he takes me to whatever's making the noise."

"Before, if I was expecting someone, I'd have to sit with the door open in the sitting room so I could hear the doorbell. And if I didn't take the kitchen timer with me, I wouldn't have a clue it had gone off, so I burned things like mad! But he will find me, wherever I am, and tell me. The difference it makes is wonderful."

Clyde is also on hand when Diana's husband – county councillor John Reynolds – needs her: "He'll call him and ask him to fetch me, then Clyde will find me and take me to John. He's a very, very good boy. Everybody adores him."

As a child, Diana had perfect hearing until the age of 6, when she developed a nasty infection in the mastoid bones at the back of both ears. The condition was left untreated, the infection spread and, devastatingly, led to meningitis.

Diana had to spend six months in hospital, an experience that's always stayed with her: "I can remember crying for my mum, because in those days parents were only allowed to visit on a Sunday afternoon for half-an-hour," she says. "I was in an oxygen tent for a lot of the time, so they were only allowed to look at me through the window."

Although she recovered, the meningitis left Diana with memory loss, which plagues her to this day, and gradually her hearing began to deteriorate. But, she says, it didn't bother her until her late 20s, by which time she was married with three daughters.

"I found I kept putting the TV on louder, and the children kept saying 'Oh Mum, are you deaf?' when they'd said something," she recalls. "It was just so frustrating because I couldn't hear what anyone was saying. I just lost everything."

At 30, Diana finally had hearing aids fitted, "and it was awful!" she chuckles. "On the first day I went to a WI meeting, and they were turning over the pages and it sounded like thunder! But I was so fascinated because I could hear a tap dripping, and birds singing, which was wonderful."

Although a trained nursery nurse, Diana ended up running a hotel with her first husband in Wales. When the couple split, John, a regular guest at the hotel, got in touch: "He sent me some flowers and said he was sorry, and next time he came up would I like to go out for a meal? And it went on from there. A year-and-a-half-later I left the hotel, and came to Cambridge."

By now it was the early 70s, and Diana began working at the Mill Road Maternity Hospital. "I was nursery nurse on the wards; it was my job to look after the babies. But it was difficult because when the babies were crying I couldn't hear, so I knew I would have to get help."

She began taking lip-reading lessons at Addenbrooke's, but admits that even today she finds it tough. "You don't see most of the word, and accents..." Diana rolls her eyes and laughs. "People might be talking in Chinese for all I know! But most people are very patient."

For much of her working life, Diana was a child-minder, "then when I retired I wanted to do something useful, but I hate being inside so I didn't want to work in a charity shop or anything like that," she says. "Debbie, my middle daughter, was then working at the library, and she said 'I've seen people coming in with Guide Dog puppies to socialise them; why don't you try it?' And I said 'That's a good idea! I'd always loved dogs.'"

After being assessed, the couple's first puppy, Harper, arrived within weeks – and so began 10 blissful years of Guide Dog puppy training.

"I had eight, and I loved it," she smiles, glancing up at the framed photos of the Guide Dogs that adorn the kitchen walls. "You have the dogs for a year, and we usually had a break between so we could get rid of the dug-up garden and chewed furniture – I've got chewed furniture everywhere! Then we had a holiday, and waited for the next one to become available."

"The only bit I hated was saying goodbye. They'd come for the dog in the morning, and I used to try and be cheerful for the dog, and give it a last treat. Then I'd shut the door and I'd howl for the rest of the day! Oh, it was awful. I cried my heart out when each one went, so Clyde's now called my Forever Dog. Aren't you, my boy?" she says, giving him a gentle pat.

Over the years, Diana's deafness became ever worse, and her hearing aids ever stronger. She covers them with her hair, "not because I'm self-conscious about them, I just think they're horrible!"

"Blind people have got a stick, and most normal people are careful and nice. But if you're deaf, people tend to ignore you. It can be very, very isolating. More isolating than blindness, I think, because you can't join in conversations."

"Lip-reading is fine if you know what the subject is, but if I go into a group of people who are already talking, it's very hard to pick up what it is."

Seven years ago, Diana was feeling thoroughly fed up: "I'd got so frustrated with not hearing, and feeling left out. Then one day I saw a child with a Hearing Dog, and I thought I'd find out about it."

She duly visited the Hearing Dogs for Deaf People centre in Buckinghamshire, where she was assessed for her suitability – and passed. But it was five years before the call finally came to say that they had a puppy which might suit her, and would she like to come and see whether she liked him?

Diana hurried down, "and they brought this great big, gorgeous, shiny dog over," she beams. "My heart was on fire – it was so wonderful. I just couldn't believe that lovely dog was coming to me. It was just pure, utter pleasure and excitement. I'd waited so long, and to have such a gorgeous boy was incredibly lucky."

Diana spent the day with

Clyde, "and I sat beside him on the floor that evening, and he had his head on my knee. He was so sweet, and so loving. The next day they said 'Will he do for you?' And I said 'Try taking him away from me!'"

She then had to leave Clyde for a month while they trained him specifically for her needs, then spent five days at the centre to train with him: "He learned very quickly, he's so good," she says.

"And I was lucky, because if they'd chosen every dog they'd ever trained, they couldn't have given me a better one than my boy."

Clyde goes everywhere with Diana, and because there's no outward sign of her disability, she's grateful that his Hearing Dog coat acts as a signal to people that she's deaf.

"When I lip-read I don't always get it right, and people used to think I was stupid because they'd say something to me and I'd answer something completely wrong," she says. "So when Clyde's got his Hearing Dog coat on, you're just telling people 'I don't hear properly, I'm not just plain stupid.' Mind you I am that sometimes..."

But it's around the house that Clyde is truly invaluable and, potentially, life-saving: "If my smoke alarm went off, he'd nudge me, and when I asked him what it was, he'd lie down. That's his danger signal," says Diana.

"I feel as though I've had him forever, and I can't imagine life without him – it would be absolutely sterile. Much as I love John," she adds with a laugh.

"Clyde will stay with me forever. I'll never, ever get rid of him. If he gets too old to work, then I will keep him; if I could have another Hearing Dog at the same time I would. But if they said no? Then I would do without, rather than lose my boy."

Man has cardiac arrest

MAGPAS Helimedix landed in Haverhill to tend to a man in his 60s.

The patient collapsed and went into cardiac arrest. Doctor Nick Foster and paramedic Alex Pearce landed at the scene shortly after 4.50pm.

The team anaesthetised the patient and accompanied him to Addenbrooke's in a land ambulance.

He was said to be in a stable condition on arrival.

The East of England Ambulance Service also attended the scene.

Town meeting on Tuesday

THE annual town meeting for Haverhill will take place on Tuesday.

The event takes place every year with local people invited to attend and share their views – but this year a celebration will take place. Haverhill Town Council has turned 25 this year, and previous town clerks, including Will Austin and Gordon Mussett, have been invited to speak.

A commemorative logo has also been designed and will be placed on mugs, to be given to councillors on the night.

Buy tickets for Alice at the park

AN OUTDOOR production of Alice in Wonderland is taking place in East Town Park this summer.

The show, brought to town by Cambridge Touring Theatre, features all of the family favourite characters in a new setting.

Parents and children alike will enjoy the fun family outing, which starts at 5pm.

Tickets cost £6.50 or £8.50 and family tickets are also available.

DUMPED: The caravan outside St Felix Primary School.

Caravan dumped at primary school

A CARAVAN was dumped outside a primary school – on the day of its Ofsted inspection.

The trailer was left on School Lane, Haverhill, just outside St Felix Primary School last week.

It was discovered on the morning of May 15, blocking the drop off point to the school, and was later moved 20ft by a resident.

A spokesman for Suffolk Police said they were called shortly before 9am, and that the incident was passed on to St Edmundsbury Borough Council, as waste management authority.

The authority spoke with Suffolk County Council, which owns the school land, and it was removed on Tuesday morning.

A St Edmundsbury spokeswoman said: "No owner could be found for the caravan and it clearly was not fit for use."

The road at St Felix's drop off point was cordoned off by the school, and parents were forced to drop off their children elsewhere.

Putting town on show

A PROGRAMME of events designed to show what Haverhill has to offer is set to start on the town's recreation ground next month.

A series of community car boot sales is planned to start on June 1 – but throughout the coming months, they will be accompanied by a themed day to showcase businesses, charities and other groups in the local area.

Perry Capon, of Burton End, has organised the events – but is calling for the community to help out.

DEBRA FOX

Mr Capon, who runs Caps and Cards Collectables on Queen Street with partner Lisa, said: "A lot of people have been getting in touch to see if the car boot sales were going on – no one had applied, so I decided I would go for it."

"I also want to highlight everything that is available in or around the town."

An international food day is set for July 27, with a music day on August 10.

Specific events will also take place alongside the boot sales. They are as follows:

- June 1 – charities and crafters
- June 15 – sports and summer events
- June 29 – fun and play day
- July 13 – charities and crafters
- August 10 – music
- August 24 – children's day
- September 7 – local businesses

- September 21 – charities
- October 5 – crafters

Mr Capon is still waiting on confirmation from St Edmundsbury Borough Council as to whether he can rent the recreation ground on his chosen dates, and permission is expected to arrive soon.

If you want to help out contact Mr Capon on perry.capon@btinternet.com or 07890412028.

Car boot pitches will cost £6 for cars and £11 for vans. Gates will be open from 9am, until 1pm.

Wrong

■ The Play That Goes Wrong, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday, May 24 at 7.45pm. Tickets £15-£25 from (01223) 503333 / cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk

ANYTHING billed as a cross between Fawlty Towers and Noises Off has some serious living up to do.

So far The Play That Goes Wrong seems to be miraculously doing just that.

Cleaning up at the Edinburgh Festival with its first run in 2013, it has a track record of turning audiences into hysterical, side-split messes. Decided to have "a highly developed sense of mischief and cheeky aplomb" by The Guardian, the show follows an incompetent troupe of amateur dramatic types, The Cornley Polytechnic Drama Society no less, attempting to stage a 1920s murder mystery, though, as you can imagine, things don't exactly go to plan... at all.

Tongue-in-cheek, brilliantly silly with a deliberately unhelpful set and a cast that bungles, trips and struggles at every turn, it was written by Henry Lewes, Jonathan Sayer and Henry Shields and has seen the Mischief Theatre Company enjoy two West End runs.

Also, with so many hazards, accidents and quickfire set leaps, the potential for disaster should be intriguingly huge.

So really, if it doesn't have you at least chuckling, your sense of humour must be way off. Or absolutely everyone else's is...

Win tickets to see Suede

BRITPOP pioneers Suede are performing at the Forestry Commission's Forest Live concert series at Thetford Forest in June.

The band bounded on to the British music scene in 1993 with their eponymous No 1 debut album, selling more than 100,000 copies in its first week of release, kick-starting the Britpop revolution and going on to become a Mercury Music Prize winner.

Success continued throughout the 90s with further No 1 albums like Coming Up and Head Music and top 10s Dog Man Star and Sci-Fi Lullabies.

Fronted by the charismatic Brett Anderson, top 10 singles like Animal Nitrate, Stay Together, Trash, Beautiful Ones, Saturday Night, Lazy, Filmstar and Electricity epitomised the vibrancy, edge and excitement of the band and ensured an impressive chart presence over a decade before going on indefinite hiatus in 2003.

After re-forming for some well-received live shows in 2010-11, Suede got down to recording their sixth studio album. Bloodsports was released in 2013 to overwhelmingly positive reviews, marked as one of the great rock comebacks and regarded as one of the best albums of the year.

To be in with a chance of winning a pair of tickets to see Suede on Friday, June 13, with special guest Ed Harcourt and support from The Hosts, answer the following question:

What is the name of Suede's frontman?

Send your answer, with your name, address and daytime phone number to: Suede Competition, PO Box 268, Cambridge CB24 6HF, to arrive no later than Monday, June 9.

Alternatively, you can email the answer, with your details, to competitions@cambridge-news.co.uk. Please put "Suede competition" in the subject box.

For tickets and further information call 03000 680400 or visit forestry.gov.uk/music.

Usual Cambridge Newspapers competition rules apply.

Forest Live is independently organised by the Forestry Commission, bringing music to audiences without commercial branding or sponsorship.

Income from the concerts is spent on improving the woodland for people and wildlife.

■ We have a recorded broadcast from the National Theatre of THE CURIOUS INCIDENT OF THE DOG IN THE NIGHT-TIME on Saturday 24 May at 7pm. Based on Mark Haddon's award-winning novel, the production won seven Olivier Awards including Best Play in 2013. It is directed by Marianne Elliott who co-directed War Horse so be prepared to expect a stunning and innovative production.

■ In a brand new 2014 show, the top stars of LDN WRESTLING are coming to Haverhill for an afternoon of action-packed drama on Sunday 25 May at 3pm. Don't miss out - with top names including British Heavyweight Champion Alan Lee Travus, Pirate Paul Malen, the Masked Man of Mystery the Dark Lord and many more.

■ Image Musical Theatre who brought The Wizard of Oz and The Wind in the Willows to us, return with THE JUNGLE BOOK on Thursday 29 May at 2pm. It's a family participation musical set in the vibrant tropical jungle of India and adapted from the original Rudyard Kipling story. During a light-hearted rehearsal, some children from the audience are taught the choruses of four songs. The rehearsal is 30 minutes, followed by an interval and then a one-hour performance.

■ There are three films on Wednesday 28 May. At 10.30am we are showing RIO 2 2D (U); at 2.30pm we are showing MUPPETS MOST WANTED (U), and we have a second showing of A LONG WAY DOWN (15) at 7.30pm, starring Pierce Brosnan and Toni Collette. On Friday 30 May at 7.30pm, featuring Mick Jagger, Darlene Love, Merry Clayton and

Bruce Springsteen is the documentary 20 FEET FROM STARDOM (12A).

■ Coming up: It's 'Springtime' for the popular Centre Stage Company as they return with THE PRODUCERS from Tuesday 3 to Saturday 7 June. Mel Brooks's hit film, tells the story of Producers Max Bialystock and Leo Bloom who try to make money by producing a sure-fire Broadway flop. Max selects an incredibly tasteless script, hires the worst director he can find and finds a terrible cast but against all the odds audiences love it! On Thursday 12 June at 7pm we have a broadcast from the National Theatre of A SMALL FAMILY BUSINESS, a riotous exposure of entrepreneurial greed by Olivier Award-winning playwright Alan Ayckbourn.

We are closed for Bank Holiday Monday 26 May but have requested lots of sun for all!

film of the week

GODZILLA (12A, 123 mins)
IN Steven Spielberg's box-office behemoth Jurassic Park, geneticists arrogantly believe they can tame Mother Nature with cutting-edge science.

"Life finds a way," warns Jeff Goldblum's fatalistic chaos mathematician.

These wise words and Spielberg's entire 1993 blockbuster provide the guiding light for Gareth Edwards's bombastic resurrection of cinema's iconic reptile.

The Warwickshire-born director harks back to Ishiro Honda's groundbreaking 1954 film Gojira, which reflected Japanese society's fears in the aftermath of the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

In Edwards's film, the titular 355ft creature boasts familiar dorsal fins, lumbering gait and fiery radioactive breath, and is securely tethered to timely concerns about the environmental consequences of nuclear power.

A mine in the Philippine jungle collapses, exposing the remains of two seemingly fossilised and highly radioactive creatures.

One of the monsters hatches and runs amok, and despite the best efforts of Dr Ishiro Serizawa (Ken Watanabe) and his colleague Dr Vivienne Graham (Sally Hawkins), its mate also escapes confinement.

US Navy Admiral William Stenz (David Strathairn) co-ordinates the response and sends his men into battle including Lieutenant Ford Brody (Aaron Taylor-Johnson), whose parents (Bryan Cranston, Juliette Binoche) worked at the Janjira nuclear plant, where one creature began its rampage.

Meanwhile in San Francisco, Ford's wife Elle (Elizabeth Olsen) prepares to evacuate with their four-year-old son Sam (Carson Bolde).

When military might fails to halt the devastation and hope dims, alpha predator Godzilla emerges from the deep...

Edwards's picture opens with a helicopter ride that could have been airlifted from Jurassic Park and continues with the Spielbergian nods including theme park ride-style action sequences and children in peril.

Godzilla is a technically accomplished hunk of large-scale monster-mashing.

You can see every cent of the rumoured 160 million dollar budget and the director makes good use of the 3D format by reflecting carnage in mirrors and glass.

Chilling images of Cranston and Taylor-Johnson entering a Japanese quarantine zone and a tender moment between the two M.U.T.O.s (Massive Unidentified Terrestrial Organisms) explicitly reference Edwards's low budget debut, Monsters.

The director manages to convey the titular reptile's feelings in the midst of battle.

Human emotions are much harder to unearth. Taylor-Johnson is a bland all-American hero and heavyweights Cranston and Binoche don't have sufficient screen time to deliver the wallop we crave.

Ken Watanabe – or Obi-Wan Watanabe as he should be renamed – is reduced to philosophising about our failings ("The arrogance of man is thinking nature is [in] our control, and not the other way round") and sounding the bell on a final round showdown between Godzilla and his adversaries.

"Let them fight!" he growls. And fight they do, reducing the Pacific coast to rubble in a titanic tussle of computer-generated sound and fury that should take a large bite out of the UK box office, much like Spielberg's T-Rex.

Poppy love

DURING the First World War, the blasted and bombed battlefields across Europe created ideal conditions for the poppy to flourish.

It was a sight which, in 1915, inspired Canadian Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae to write the well-known war poem In Flanders Fields, with poppies growing there 'row on row' and, as such, this vivid red flower has become synonymous with the great loss of life and sacrifices made in war.

This year, to mark the centenary of the start of the First World War, poppy displays will rightly abound nationwide.

The Royal Botanic Garden Edinburgh is creating a poppy field to be in full bloom in late July, Gunby Hall and Gardens in Lincolnshire has its own poppy trail, and there's poppy planting at Sheffield Park in East Sussex (www.nationaltrust.org.uk) and beautiful displays at Dyrham Park near Bath.

Poppies will also feature heavily in Birmingham City Council's exhibit in the Great Pavilion at the RHS Chelsea Flower Show this year, while tens of thousands of poppies have also been sown by children, soldiers, civic leaders, community organisations, clergy and faith groups nationwide as a joint act of remembrance.

The field poppy or corn poppy, Papaver rhoeas, is the poppy of wartime remembrance. This annual flower can lie dormant for many years before germination which is then often triggered when the soil is disturbed. It's perfect planted in a sunny wildflower garden or a meadow where it will self-seed freely.

Throughout history, a new generation of corn poppies was germinated each year as land was ploughed and grain scattered. It is a plant relevant to many cultures – to the Egyptians it symbolised blood and rebirth, while the Romans hailed it as the sacred crop of Ceres.

Its family, papaveraceae, is relatively small, with less than 800 species, but the types vary greatly in size and colour. Among the largest are the flowers of P. orientale Goliath Group, appearing atop shoulder-high stems. The petals share the same tissue-paper look as their smaller cousins, yet poppy types range from the toughest hardy perennials to pretty annuals, from giants with tall spires such as P. pilosum, to ground-hugging alpine. They are all followed by round decorative seedpods.

By far the most showy and most familiar in the garden is Papaver orientale, which adds dramatic highlights to early summer with their spectacular blooms. The typical oriental poppy is a hardy perennial which produces scarlet flowers with a black blotch at the bottom of each petal, but you can get other colours including pink, orange, white and plum. Stunning varieties include 'Mrs Perry', with large salmon-pink blooms and 'Patty's Plum', which is dark and dramatic.

Most named oriental poppies are sterile and can be propagated by root cuttings, while species poppies rely on seed to keep them going. P. somniferum, the opium poppy enjoyed for its ornamental value, is a prolific self-seeder, but it's best to save some of its seeds to sow where you actually want them to be.

All poppies have a dainty appearance but many don't need staking. However, you must remove the dead blooms to prolong the flowering season. Good companions to oriental poppies include the frothy flowers of Gypsophila paniculata, penstemon and agapanthus.

Most poppies prefer sun and moist soil but several, including the Welsh poppy, Meconopsis cambrica, prefer stretches of woodland in dappled shade, where they colonise ground between bluebells and wood anemones.

So while the field poppy will always remain one of the most powerful and poignant images of remembrance, its wider family in all its glorious colours and forms has earned itself a well-deserved place in the British garden.

Icon-ic changes for Auris

THINGS are hotting up for Auris this summer with the introduction of new Icon Plus versions among a raft of changes to the line-up of popular British-built hatchbacks and wagons that delivers new features and a wider choice of hybrids.

The new Icon Plus grade builds on the established Auris Icon specification with the addition of new-design 16-inch alloy wheels, rear privacy glass and a folding function for the electrically adjustable door mirrors. Icon Plus models are also offered in a new Tungsten Blue metallic paint finish.

Inside there are heated sports front seats with electric lumbar support control.

Cruise control is provided on the petrol and hybrid models and all versions benefit from the improved Toyota Touch 2 with Go multimedia and navigation package.

NEW: The Toyota Auris Icon

Customer demand for Auris Hybrid continues to grow with the ultra-efficient and smooth powertrain now comfortably outselling the petrol and diesel versions. Toyota is extending the choice on offer by making both the hatchback and Touring Sports hybrids available in the new Icon Plus grade, in addition to the Icon and Excel trims.

The Auris is the latest Toyota model to benefit from the second generation of Toyota's touchscreen-controlled multimedia system, Toyota Touch 2. The core package comes as standard on Icon grade, while the more sophisticated Toyota Touch 2 with Go, including navigation and more advanced connectivity features, is provided on Icon Plus and Excel models.

Toyota has also tweaked the options list for Auris, taking into account the new Icon Plus grade and revisions to the Excel models' specification.

Customers can specify a panoramic roof for Icon Plus and Excel, and leather upholstery for all versions bar the entry level Active.

There's a wealth of accessories available for the 2014 Toyota Auris, designed for both style and practicality.

UPGRADED: The Ariel Atom

Ariel all set to clean up

BRITISH firm Ariel has upgraded version its sensational Atom sports car, making it one of the quickest cars on sale.

The Atom 3.5R's 2.0-litre Honda V-TEC engine has had its supercharger revised to give 350bhp and more than 240lb.ft of torque, while the gearbox is now a six-speed paddle shift system that can manage five downshifts in less than a second.

Add to that the revised suspension, optional side pods and aerodynamic package, and it's hardly surprising that the performance figures are sensational. Ariel claims 0-60mph can be despatched in 2.5 seconds, while 0-100mph is reached in 6 seconds – quicker than Ferrari's F12 Berlinetta.

The Atom 3.5R is expected to cost £64,800.

Drivers 'say no to 20mph'

20MPH ZONE: Not to all tastes

DRIVERS are against the idea of a blanket 20mph speed limit on urban roads, according to research published today by road safety charity, Institute of Advanced Motorists (IAM).

Half of drivers from the UK are against a blanket 20mph speed limit with under a third willing to embrace the idea and a fifth are undecided. Male drivers are more likely to be against the idea than female.

Fifty-five per cent of young drivers were against 20mph zones as a speed limit for towns while 34 per cent of older drivers were in favour.

Drivers are very supportive of lower speed limits outside schools, with ninety-four per cent of respondents agreeing that this would be a good idea. Areas with high numbers of pedestrians such as parks (34 per cent), hospitals and shops were the next most popular with 21 per cent of drivers in favour. Only eight per cent of respondents opted for 20mph near cycle lanes.

Over three quarters of drivers believe that 20mph speed limits help to increase safety for pedestrians; however, only a fifth saw it as a positive advantage for cyclists. Pollution and noise were not seen as important benefits.

Using 20mph speed limit signs only to enforce lower limits was twice as popular as physical traffic calming measures and three times more popular than the use of speed cameras. Only a fifth of drivers think enforcing 20 limits should be a police priority.

Sixty-eight per cent of drivers would like to see a specially tailored re-education course for drivers caught doing up to 30mph in a 20mph zone.

There is a difference between speed limits and zones. Councils have the power to introduce 20mph speed limits and zones without obtaining consent from the Secretary of State.

Speed zones are a collection of streets with a 20mph limit whereas speed limits are set for individual roads. Some local authorities have set 20mph speed limits on a number of individual roads so creating blanket coverage of residential areas with a 20mph speed limit.

20mph speed limits can be introduced without any form of traffic calming. In many areas they are being used across the whole area. Whilst not as effective as 20mph speed zones they can still produce significant lowering of speeds over a wide area for very little cost. Compliance is increased by publicity, driver awareness and community involvement. This can and does play a large part in self-enforcement.

IAM chief executive Simon Best said: "Many drivers still need to be convinced it would be a benefit."

STUNNER: Audi's A3 clubsport quattro concept doing its thing

Audi's new A3 star

THE Audi S3 Saloon surrenders to the Wörthersee treatment this month, swapping its already potent 300PS output for a mighty 525PS and metamorphosing into the A3 clubsport quattro concept for the annual meeting of fans of the Volkswagen Group brands in Reifnitz, Germany (May 28-31).

Adding 600Nm of torque to the mix courtesy of a 2.5-litre, five-cylinder TFSI engine which replaces the S3 Saloon's four-cylinder TFSI, the A3 clubsport quattro concept will be the Audi star of a show that will also include the 420PS Audi TT quattro sport concept and a host of other Audi models.

The powerful five-cylinder TFSI engine is already available in the first ever SUV to wear the renowned RS badge – the RS Q3. The turbocharged engine with direct injection boasts an impressive CV – since 2010, it has been voted "International Engine of the Year" in its category four times in succession.

In the show car, the 2,480cc five-cylinder unit has a specific output of 211PS per litre, and combined with a kerb weight of 1,527kg the power-to-weight ratio of the concept stands at an impressive 343.8PS per ton. The 600 Nm (442.5 lb-ft) torque peak is available between 2,300 and 6,000rpm, pushing the A3 clubsport quattro concept from 0 to 62mph in 3.6 seconds on the way to a top speed of 192mph. Extensive modifications make this extreme performance possible. These include a large turbocharger with up to 1.5 bar of relative boost pressure and a modified intercooler.

Paffett back in the points

AN incident-packed DTM race in Oschersleben saw Gary Paffett come away with vital points after an eighth-place finish.

Given Mercedes' problematic start to the season, the result was something of a bonus for the Haverhill driver.

But he will not let the encouraging results he and some of the other Mercedes drivers enjoyed – including race winner Christian Vietoris – cloud the fact the Audis and BMWs are still quicker.

"We took good points that were unexpected," he said.

"But the underlying pace of the car is still a way off.

"There's a lot of work to do and we need to focus on what we need to work on to make close the gap. I believe we have taken a step closer though."

A chaotic race began on a damp circuit, but Paffett started with the softer option tyre on his Euronics Mercedes AMG C-Coupe.

It turned out to be an inspired decision in the opening few laps as Paffett moved up from 18th on the grid to seventh.

A mistake on lap six, and a safety car period, threatened to ruin his race, but a second safety car deployment, which occurred after he had made his mandatory pit stop, turned the situation around for him as he came home in eighth.

Audi driver Mike Rockenfeller, who was second in Sunday's race, leads the drivers' championship with 30 points.

Paffett is 14th with four points. The series resumes at the Hungaroring in Budapest, Hungary, on June 1.
